► Murdoch and Hunt's Encyclopedia of Irish Law

For over thirty years, Murdoch and Hunt has been the gold standard in legal reference. Indeed, the related book carries the distinction of being the only Irish legal reference book ever mentioned in a Supreme Court judgment.

This service is designed primarily for busy practitioners who want an aide memoire or an introduction to an area of law with which they are not immediately familiar, and which will either fulfil their needs there and then or point the correct direction for further information. An example is '[Rest]. A grant caeterorum is a grant of representation in respect of the rest of the property of a deceased made to the person so entitled, where a grant of part only of the estate (save and except) has already been made. See PROBATE.'

Murdoch and Hunt's Encyclopedia of Irish Law is fully interactive, inter-linked and searchable — making it the ideal starting point for legal research. Moreover, all definitions are regularly reviewed and updated to take stock of legal developments, including both case law and legislation.

► Irish Planning Law

With the many intricacies and complexities surrounding planning law in Ireland, our online service Irish Planning Law is designed to provide you with the tools needed to run a busy planning law practice. It provides subscribers with access to key looseleaf and online resources, notably including our titles from A&L Goodbody, listed below. A&L Goodbody's Environmental & Planning law group is the largest such specialist team in Ireland, and a recognised market leader. Their Bloomsbury Professional Online titles combine authoritative commentary with lucid analysis, making them a key resource for anyone involved in the planning process.
