4TH EDITION

Market Abuse and Insider Dealing

Barry Rider, Kern Alexander, University of Zurich,
Stuart Bazley & Jeffrey Bryant

With changes to both the UK and European regimes the line between what is normal (and sensible) business practice and what may now be classified as market abuse is becoming increasingly fine. This raises questions about communications between financial institutions and investors, and about corporate and analyst access.

This book provides guidance on and explanation of the range of potential legal and regulatory responses to this complex area of law.

Human Rights in Criminal Law

Ben Douglas-Jones QC, Paul Mason, Daniel Bunting & Benjamin Newton

This book focusses on the impact of human rights law at every stage of the criminal process. It traces the principal human rights issues that arise from protections that apply during an investigation prior to a suspect even knowing that they are a suspect, to powers of arrest and search, and treatment at the police station. It then considers every stage of the criminal process up to any potential appeal before the domestic courts and the European Court of Human Rights.

It is divided into four parts. Part 1 covers the fundamental principles of the European Convention on Human Rights and the Human Rights Act 1998 and their application in domestic law, particularly in relation to criminal appeal. Parts 2 to 4 address the three broad phases of a criminal case investigation, pre-trial and trial providing an analysis of human rights law.

Susan Cavender, Alistair Heggarty & Caighli Taylor

Draws together aspects which arise in day-to-day court practice, alongside information about, eg heavy goods vehicles and taxis.

Sets out how a case makes its way through the courts, the various offences, how to handle them at every stage (including sentencing) and notes the most important matters in each situation. It also includes sections about the minimum requirements for legality and the circumstances in which licences may be revoked.

Assists legal practitioners and people who choose to represent themselves (litigants in person) wishing to set out their case in the Magistrates' Courts when facing prosecution for a more minor offence.

Criminal Defence Representation at Garda Stations

Vicky Conway & Yvonne Daly

A comprehensive guide to the work and practice of solicitors defending suspects in Garda stations in Ireland. It explores what the role of the solicitor is in the Garda station and what role the interview plays in the criminal justice process.

It outlines the skills necessary to defend suspects in Garda stations and takes the practitioner through the entire process from first contact, to deciding to attend to pre-interview consultation. Particular attention is paid to the thorny issues of disclosure and the right to silence, before considering some of the more practical dimensions of acting in criminal defence work.

Disciplinary Procedures in the Statutory Professions

Simon Mills, Aideen Ryan & Colm Scott-Byrne

Various disciplinary and regulatory bodies have different rules, powers and procedures, even while sharing a basic legal framework. This book allows a practitioner who is appearing before such a body to prepare their case by setting out what powers the body has, what evidence it can hear, the form the procedure will take, whether they can call witnesses, and what sanctions it can impose.

This book was the first title to consider the specific question of the regulation of statutory professions in Ireland including architects, surveyors, teachers, pharmacists, health and social care professionals and accountants.

Personal Insolvency Law in Ireland

Alan McGee

Personal insolvency law can be a complex area for practitioners and this text will guide you through the Personal Insolvency process which was introduced in Ireland following the last economic crash by way of The Personal Insolvency Act 2012. The Insolvency Service of Ireland was established in 2013 and began processing insolvency applications in the last quarter of 2013. The process was slow to take off as the banks held a de facto veto on the process and the Act was amended in 2015 to allow for an appeal process. A large body of High Court jurisprudence has now been developed.

Principles and Practice

Roy Donegan

Global Transfer Pricing offers readers an overall view of transfer pricing as it is practised today. In addition to the theory of transfer pricing, this practical handbook explains how to implement transfer pricing models in global multinationals, how to monitor transactions to ensure compliance and how to create transfer pricing documentation.

This title is put together by an expert team at Deloitte.

Rayney's Tax Planning for Family and Owner-Managed Companies 2022/23

Peter Rayney

This highly respected book provides advice on a range of factors impacting the tax planning activity undertaken by most businesses.

The structure enables the reader to navigate quickly to an area that interests them, whether it be the extraction of funds from the company, remuneration strategies or the treatment of benefits and expenses. The commentary summarises the key planning points from the viewpoints of the company itself, the shareholders and in some instances the employees. Planning checklists appear at the end of all relevant chapters.

As well as reflecting recent HMRC guidance and relevant case decisions, the content is updated in line with the provisions brought in by Finance Act 2022.

Tax Litigation Handbook

Pump Court Tax Chambers

Tax Litigation Handbook, authored by Pump Court Tax Chambers is the successor to the previously published Hamilton on Tax Appeals.

It deals with tax appeals process, including the types of decision that can be appealed and how an appeal can be brought. It also addresses procedures for other types of tax litigation, such as judicial review to the Upper Tier Tribunal, claims for professional negligence, insolvency procedures and High Court litigation.

All commentary references relevant cases, and includes examples where relevant. The book will be of interest to practitioners representing clients in an appeal, or those considering appealing a decision.

7TH EDITION

Tax Advisers' Guide to Trusts

Jacquelyn Kimber & Julie Bell

The book concentrates on the UK tax rules applicable to trusts resident in the UK or abroad, and the resultant tax liabilities of trustees, settlors and beneficiaries, and opportunities for reducing those liabilities.

The new edition brings the commentary in line with recent cases, including Routier, and Quentin Skinner. The impact of Brexit, and Covid-19, including the Stamp Duty holiday, is covered, as are the new intestacy rules in February 2020, and the impact of new money laundering regulations on trusts. Recent changes to the Inheritance Tax Act 1984 (s.48(3) (excluded property) and s. 81 (settlements)) are also covered.

The Regulation of Tax Avoidance

Hartley Foster

This book explains the concept of "tax avoidance", how it has been developed in legislation and case law, and provides guidance on the application of introduced supply side measures.

The first part of the book examines relevant legal developments and cases. Part Two covers the introduced supply side measures, from DOTAS onwards, including the penalty regime, set up to dissuade individuals and businesses from engaging in tax avoidance practices.

This is a complex and changing area of tax law and this title will help advisers to avoid falling foul of these regulations and ensure that their reputation remains 'clean'.

5TH EDITION

Taxation of Intellectual Property

Julian Hickey & Zeeshan Khilji

This title analyses the approach of the UK tax regime towards intellectual property assets. Following the life-cycle of intellectual property from creation to disposal, the commentary highlights the tax considerations and planning issues for individuals, non-corporate entities and companies. A separate chapter deals with international issues. Two new chapters are added to this edition, one dealing with crypto-assets, and the other providing guidance on dealing with disputes, enquiries and appeals, focussing on the practical issues advisors need to consider.

This new edition is updated by Julian Hickey of Old Square Tax Chambers and Zeeshan Khilji of ETC Tax.
